

Our New Stephen Ministers

Commissioned Sunday, April 26, 2009

Nanette Brissette became a member of FPC this past fall and is to be married to her fiancée, Gary Stout, on May 16. Her son recently graduated from USF, married his long time sweetheart, and is preparing to enter Law School. Nanette has an extensive background in social work and ministry and is currently employed by the Tampa Bay Work Force Alliance. She loves her bulldog, Buttercup, reading, crafts and planning group activities.

Susanne Coffman has been a member of FPC for eighteen years and with her husband, James, they have twelve wonderful grandchildren! Susanne has been involved with Bible studies and Presbyterian Women activities; engaged in community service events; and enjoys reading, gardening, and golf to name a few of her many interests.

Lynn Grady became a member of FPC in 1973 and returned to Vine where she is active. Lynn was widowed in 2003 and has two girls, five grandchildren, two dogs, and two cats. Lynn retired from the Polk County Schools and puts in many hours with grandchildren and her community volunteering. She is a retired speech therapist, administrator, and reading consultant who enjoyed 'reading through the Bible in 90 days'. Lynn has a heart for Global Missions and loves dog training, gardening, and knitting.

Rosemary Hayes has been at FPC for the last five years coming from Wisconsin where her two children are presently in college. Married to Wayne and previously an administrative assistant for a medical supply firm, she recently became unemployed. Rosemary has read through the Bible in 90 days and occupies down time with job seeking, water activities, and her Harley.

Rebecca Miller became a member of FPC last year and is active in the Vine and community outreach programs. She has served in the US Army as a Chaplain's Assistant and now works in Admissions at Southeastern University. She is married to Preston and they have three children and one new grandchild. Rebecca enjoys tennis and ballroom dancing with her husband.

Cecelia Moore has been a member of FPC for twenty two years, is married to John, and they have seven grandchildren. She is very active in our church as the Director of Christian Education, an avid reader, and participates in numerous local boards and civic organizations. She is dedicated to improving our community and advocating for those in need.

Charlotte Noble is married to Robert and they had five children and are now blessed with four grandchildren. She became a member of FPC last year and enjoyed completing the "Read the Bible in 90 days." Retired from nursing, she has more time to devote to research on Civil War genealogy and collecting artifacts. Charlotte also enjoys singing and playing the piano.

Luella Payne has been a member of FPC over nine years and currently is our receptionist. She and husband Fred, whom she lost in 2007, combined families when they married and then had three children together. She now has more than seventeen grandchildren that she enjoys spending time with, and when she has free time you may see her walking or catch her doing computer research or games.

Betsy Stone has been a member of FPC for one and a half years and has two grown sons in Dansbury, Connecticut, and one mini dachshund named Sammy! Her aunt and uncle, Dick and Genie Watkins, attend FPC, and like her, have just finished "Read the Bible in 90 Days." Betsy's joy of reading is equal to her love of teaching struggling readers at Denison Middle School.
